

Rock The Street, Wall Street

Career Center for Alumnae & Students

BUILDING THE PIPELINE THROUGH ACCESS & SUPPORT

Internships, Jobs, Training, Networking, Events

Welcome to Rock The Street, Wall Street's (RTSWS) re-imagined Alumni & Career Center, empowering diverse students and alumnae with transformative technology. We continue to support and strengthen our talented individuals as they enter the workforce.

Our Approach: We connect emerging RTSWS students and alumnae with leading firms, offering access often missing for young women from diverse backgrounds. Firms can post internships, entry-level roles, and positions requiring 2-5 years of experience, fostering engagement and opportunities for our growing community of over 1,000 alumnae.

The RTSWS digital platform enhances the program's impact by expanding reach and support for students and alumnae, along with engaging sponsor firms. This additive programming becomes more critical as we grow, providing access and visibility to internships and early career jobs previously limited to family connections and exclusive circles.

SPONSOR FIRMS & FOUNDATIONS CAN:

- ✓ Post internships, entry-level, and junior roles, gaining visibility among a growing cohort of diverse students.
- ✓ Co-host in-person and virtual career workshops and recruitment events, sharing best practices.
- ✓ Promote sessions with senior leadership/mentors to help girls navigate their careers.
- ✓ Participate in webinars, panels, and financial updates, showcasing thought leadership.
- ✓ Provide selective messaging to the LinkedIn RTSWS Alumni community, spotlighting firms and open roles for sponsors.

RTSWS is an innovative nonprofit empowering high school girls with financial and investment literacy. Founded by former Wall Street executive, Maura Cunningham, RTSWS brings STEM to young women in over 60 high schools across 30 cities in the US, London, and Toronto. Through volunteer instructors and sponsor firms, RTSWS helps students see themselves in key roles, offering a flight path into STEM careers and addressing the gender gap in math and investing.
